THE MOUSE TRAPFriday, January 20, 2012
Directed by Jason Heil

The Mousetrap, Agatha Christie’s celebrated murder mystery play, opens the 2012 Winter Season. Set in England in a newly-opened boarding house, the ingenious plot will keep you guessing about who the culprit might be. Everyone is a suspect in this whodunit when a group of guests descend upon Monkswell Manor. Arriving on the scene is a police investigator who uncovers lies and deceptions and discovers that everyone has hidden secrets.

LITTLE WOMEN Friday, February 24, 2012
Directed by Kathy Brombacher
Choreography by Carlos Mendoza

One of America’s most beloved books soars to the stage in an exhilarating new Broadway show. Little Women - The Musical is the story of the remarkable March sisters and the men they love. It is based on Louisa May Alcott’s timeless tale about the power of family, friendship, and romance. This vibrant musical soars with the sounds of personal discovery, heartache, and hope - the sounds of a young America finding its voice.

BEAU JEST Friday March 30, 2012
Directed by Christopher Williams

Concluding the season is the hit Off-Broadway comedy, Beau Jest by James Sherman. Convinced that her Jewish parents won’t approve of her non-Jewish boyfriend, the eager-to-please Sarah hires an actor to play the man of her dreams. Imagine “My Big Fat Greek Wedding” meets “The Wedding Singer” with a little “Fiddler on the Roof” thrown in and you have the makings of a delightful family comedy full of crazy confusion, hilarity and romance.
